Positive Coping Skills

	control colonia sitting
Ask for help	Reach out to someone else.
Inspire yourself	Carry something positive (e.g., a poem)
Persist	Never, never, never, never, never give up
Honesty	Secrets hurt; honesty heals
Cry	Let yourself cry; it won't last forever
Take good care of your body	Healthy eating, exercise, safe sex
List your options	In any situation, you have choices
Create meaning	Find out, or remind yourself, what you live for
Do the best you can w/ what you have	Make the most of available opportunities
Set boundaries	It's okay to say no
Compassion	Listen to yourself respectfully and carefully
When in doubt, do what's hardest	The most difficult path is often the right one
Talk yourself through it	Positive self-talk helps when times are hard
Imagine	Create a mental picture (e.g., a safe place)
Pace yourself	If overwhelmed, go slower; if stagnant, go faster
Stay safe	Do whatever you need to put your safety first
Seek understanding, not blame	Listen to your behavior; blame prevents growth
If one way doesn't work, try another	As in a maze, turn a corner and try a new path
Create a new story	You are the author of your life
Avoid avoidable suffering	Anticipate and prevent painful situations
Ask others	Check your self-beliefs with others for accuracy
Get organized	A to-do list and clean space give you control
Healing above all	Focus on what matters
Try something, anything	A good plan today is better than a perfect plan tomorrow
Discovery	Find out whether your assumption is true, rather than staying "in your head"
Attend treatment	Counseling, groups, self-help –what works for you
Create a buffer	Put a boundary between yourself and the painful situation/memory
Say what you really think	You'll feel closer to others (but only safe others)
Listen to your needs	Do not neglect yourself; hear what you need
Move toward your opposite	For example, if you've realized you're too dependent, move toward independence
Replay the scene	Review a negative event without blame; simply ask, what can you do differently next time?
Structure your day	A productive schedule keeps you connected and on track
Set an action plan	Be specific about your change, consider setting a deadline, and let others know about it
Protect yourself	Put up a shield against destructive people, environments, things

Soothing talk	Talk to yourself very gently (as you would a friend or a small child)
Trust the process	Just keep moving forward; the only way on is through
Work the material	The more you practice and participate in treatment, the quicker the healing
Integrate the split self	Accept all side of yourself; they are there for a reason
Expect growth to feel uncomfortable	If it feels awkward or difficult, you're doing it right
Pretend you like yourself even when	See how different the day feels you don't
Focus on now	Do what you can to make today better; don't get overwhelmed by past or future
Praise yourself	Notice what you did right; this is the most powerful method of growth
Observe repeating patterns	Try to notice and observe things you do over and over again
Self-nurture	Do something you enjoy
Let go of destructive relationships	If it can't be fixed, detach
Take responsibility	Take an active, not passive approach
Make a commitment	Promise yourself to do what's right to help yourself
Rethink	Think in a way that helps you to feel better
Detach from emotional pain (grounding)	Distract, walk away, change the channel
Learn from experience	Seek wisdom that can help you next time
Solve the problem	When things go wrong, seek a solution
Use kinder language	Make your language to yourself and others less harsh
Examine the evidence	Evaluate both sides of the picture
Plan it out	Take the time to think ahead
Identify negative beliefs	E.g., "shoulds", need to deprive yourself
Reward yourself	Find a healthy way to celebrate what you do well
Create new tapes	Literally! Record yourself describing a new way of thinking and play it back whenever you need to Find rules to live by	Remember a phrase that works for you
Setbacks are not failures	They are setbacks; nothing more
Tolerate the feeling	"No feeling is final"
Actions first, feelings follow	Don't wait for motivation; start now
Fight the trigger	Take an active approach to protect yourself
Notice the source	Before you accept criticism or advice, notice who is providing it
Make a decision	If you're stuck, try choosing the best solution you can now – don't wait
Prioritize healing	Make healing your most urgent goal above all
Get others to support you	Tell people what you need
Notice what you can control	List the aspects of your life you do have a say in
